Not to "come out" at the Christmas ball is to confess one's self a social failure to begin with. The ball is entirely the affair of the young men, and a girl's debut involves her family in no more expense than is incurred for a gown. After the ball she is regarded as launched, and is expected to stay at home every Sunday evening to receive the score or more men whose weekly visits signal a Mobile girl's belleship. Washington mammas whose daughters receive scarcely more than twenty visits in a whole season may well sigh for Mobile.

A Spinster's Tea.

Philadelphia Record. A decidedly original entertainment was given the other day at a beautiful suburban home that could be copied with profit by those interested in planning affairs for church and charitable purposes. "A Spinster's Tea" was the wording on the invitations, which were headed by a clever little pen and ink sketch of a cat, on Spinsters' Solace. " The guests were invited to come at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and to appear in the costume of the traditional spinster. The majority of the guests wore curls and all of them old-time gowns. They carried reticules and quaint bead bags containing sprigs of fennel and response to a request in the invitation, each one told a story of her courtship and why her lover was rejected. The guest | by Miss Eva Erymyer. telling the best story received as a prize a fine picture with a cat for the subject. A guessing match was a feature of the entertainment, and a prize was awarded to the contestant giving the greatest number of correct answers to a series of cat questions. The questions and answers were as follows: Library cat (catalogue), aspiring cat (catamount), tree cat (catalpa), near relation (catkin), water cat (cataract), dangerous cat (catastrophe), barber cat (pole cat), spicy cat (catsup), cat's favorite plant

(catnip), musical cat (catgut.) was taken at the conclusion of the tea. Mr. and Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Matilda Salisbury This was served at 5 o'clock. How we secured them: The United States government always have their blankets made to order, because they must contain the very best of yarn, and also full weight and size. These special orders are always closed with iron-clad contracts as to the full weight, size and quality. This contract called for eight pounds, white, all-wool, shrunk blankets. Somehow the manufacturers made these up a little short of eight pounds, consequently the entire lot was rejected. The only thing for the manufacturer to do was to accept what he could get.
